Our Process

SuperStaff BPO provides end-to-end multilingual support to propel our clients' growth as they capture the international market.

1. Identify needs

Our process starts with determining your type of business and identifying the resources and language expertise you'll need. We also discuss the cultural practices of the country where your market is based.

2. Establish goals

Once we acquire a full grasp of your industry's customers, we define objective goals for the multilanguage support service you will need. Besides specifying language expectations, we outline targets and clarify performance evaluation measures that we will need to exceed.

3. Create scope of work

The next step is to outline a work process tailored to what your business and customers require. The overall plan may vary according to your preferred communication channels and whether the type of support is inbound or outbound.

4. Select from talent pool

After we finalize initial planning and align goals, we proceed with building your multilingual team. We closely involve you in this process and let you pick from our pool of candidates, who have been carefully evaluated to ensure competence in speaking your clients' vernacular.

5. Train and integrate

To prepare the agents for a successful multilingual support operation, we facilitate comprehensive language and culture training. Our training team also integrates your company's ethos and vision in the training sessions and materials.

6. Manage office operations

Our role doesn't end after completing the setup of your multilingual support center. To position you for the best possible outcome, we manage our multilingual support teams' performance daily.
